ABOUT ME:

Jhonel B. Castaños is an 18-year-old student with a passion for technology and innovation. Born in August 10, 2006 in Surigao City. He is originally from Mapawa, Maragusan, Davao de Oro, but he currently lives in Kaskag, Washington, Surigao del Norte, while studying Computer Engineering at Surigao del Norte State University. Jhonel chose Computer Engineering because of his strong interest in technology and solving problems.

He is dedicated to learning how computer systems work and how they can be improved to meet the needs of the modern world. Through his studies, he aims to build the skills and knowledge needed to succeed in the field of technology. Although he lives away from his permanent home, Jhonel stays connected to his roots in Mapawa, Maragusan, Davao de Oro.

This connection shapes his character, teaching him to balance the challenges of living in a new place while staying true to his values and identity.

Jhonel looks forward to a future where he can use his education to make a meaningful impact in computer engineering. He hopes to create innovative solutions that help others while proudly representing his community and inspiring others to follow their dreams.
